At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bedford Trust Company Saturday, the resignation of P. N. Risser as Secretary and Treasurer is again not accepted. Mr. Risser has agreed to serve until the shareholders meeting in January.

The Bedford Post No. 113, American Legion, desire to express their thanks and appreciation to the public for their support, the Ladies Auxiliary for soliciting and to all those who in any way contributed and helped to make their festival a success. The amount derived was sufficient for the purpose of this festival and will be carefully handled.

Those granted a marriage license in Cumberland from Bedford County this week were: Adam Clyde Gohn, of Windber and Ruth Elizabeth Lattow, of New Paris; Charles Ellsworth McKnight and Margaret Grace Evans, of Six Mile Run; Marshall Austin Wright and Ruth Marie Livingston, both of Hopewell; Harry William Mortz, of Hyndman and Nellie May Critchfield of Mann's Choice; Chester L. Swane and Cora M. Noel, both of Six Mile Run.

William Brice, Jr., and John C. Chamberlain have been appointed postmasters of their respective towns Bedford and Everett. Mr. Brice assumed charge Monday and succeeded Dr. American Enfield, who held the position for nine years. Mr. Chamberlain succeeded Mr. Fred Cox, who received the appointment from Congressman Rose, but Congressman Kurtz upon the advice of the Independent Republican wing here reversed Congressman Rose and landed Chamberlain.

DR. LEE FRANCIS LYBARGER TO GIVE LECTURE

The White Bureau cancelled the third number of the Lyceum Course on account of the death of a member of the Bureau staff, Miss Jean Fowler, who was to give the third number, was called back by the Bureau to take the place of the deceased.

In place of this number Dr. Lee Francis Lybarger has been secured and, unless changes will be made, he will be here on Tuesday evening May 8th. The regular season tickets will admit holders of same without extra charge. Single admission will be 50c.

Dr. Lybarger is a brilliant lecturer and an exponent of "power of suggestion." Those interested in the celebrated Cone, and the force of the phase "Day by day in every way I am getting better and better" will not miss this opportunity to hear this up-to-date subject explained. This number will cost considerably more than the number regularly scheduled, but it is expected that the single admission will make up for this difference.

It may be interesting to the public to know that the receipts for the Bedford Entertainment given by the Bedford Merry-makers last week were $164.55 and after paying all expenses the splendid sum of $123.30 was given to the Equipment Fund for the new building.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Edgar S. Bowers and Minnie K. Bridenbaugh, both of Roaring Spring Clyde Mull, of Madley, and Iva Myrl Evans, of Earlston.

J. Carl Snyder, of Snake Spring township and Helen Messersmith of Earlston.

REV. HENRY B. TOWNSEND CALLED BY DEATH

Rev. Henry B. Townsend, for several years pastor of the Presbyterian church and since retiring lived with the Russell's on the Public Square, died Tuesday, April 17, 1923 at the Russell home, death being due to shock from being hit by an automobile on Saturday, April 7th while attempting to cross the street on the corner at the Ford Garage. Rev. Townsend was born in Columbus, Ohio February 22, 1840. He was married to Amanda Rogers as his first wife and Sarah Brinton, his second. He is survived by one brother, Thomas V. Townsend, of Atlantic City.

The funeral was preached Wednesday in the Presbyterian church by Rev. R. S. Caldwell, the present minister, assisted by Dr. Carney, J. Albert Klyer and Rev. Huber. After the services his body was taken by train to Montgomery Square, Montgomery County, Pa. where his first wife is buried in her brothers family lot of the Rogers estate.

Rev. Townsend was a highly educated man. He attended Ursinus College the University of Pennsylvania, and the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, graduating in 1862. He came to Bedford in 1901 and served the ministry here till 1909 when he retired. He was across the sea several times visiting the Holy Lands and traveled considerably in Europe and Africa. He was a very able minister. His generous spirit will be remembered by a host of worthy friends.

Frank P. Gilchrist

Frank P. Gilchrist, 70 years of age, died early yesterday morning at the home of his nephew, Samuel Gilchrist, on East Pitt street, Bedford, Pa. The deceased who was a blacksmith and carriage builder at Bedford for many years, was an ardent fisherman. Monday at noon he placed a net in the Raystown Branch off East Penn street and about 6 o'clock in the evening went to lift it. He had waded into the water a few feet when he was stricken with paralysis and fell. Several children playing nearby saw his predicament and summoned help and neighbors extricated him and took him to the home of his nephew nearby. The stroke and icy plunge resulted in death a few hours later.

Mr. Gilchrist was a son of Thomas Gilchrist, a former toll-gate keeper at Wolfburg, at which place he was born. Surviving him are his widow, who was Miss Mary Ernest and the following children: Mrs. Clarence Litzburg, Mrs. S. H. Buile, Thomas E. Gilchrist and Raymond V. Gilchrist all of Cumberland, Mrs. William Brice, Jr., and Miss Annie M. Gilchrist, of Bedford. He also leaves two brothers and two sisters: David and Harry Gilchrist. Mrs. John I. Corle and Mrs. Margaret Points, of Bedford. Funeral services were held at the home of Samuel Gilchrist at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon with Rev. J. A. Eyer officiating. Interment was in Bedford cemetery.

Mrs. Albert Britt

Mrs. Albert Britt died suddenly Tuesday morning of acute indigestion at her home on West Pitt street aged 50 years. Her maiden name was Bertha Evans and she is survived by her husband and two children, Albert Jr., and Alice, both at home. Funeral services were held at the late home at 10 o'clock Thursday morning Rev. J. V. Royer of the M. E. Church officiating. Interment at this place.

Daniel Raley

The people of Hyndman were shocked last Sunday afternoon to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Daniel Raley, one of the oldest citizens of that place. Death was due to paralysis and his age was 80 years 11 months and 29 days. Mr. Raley enjoyed good health up to the day of his death and on Saturday evening was seen on the streets greeting his many friends. On December 6, 1868 he was united in marriage to Louisa Ann Devore, who preceded him in death January 25, 1911. He is survived by three daughters and two sons Mrs. Mary P. Wertz, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Ida B. Smith of Connellsville, Pa., Mrs. Effie Walther, of New York, James A., of Hyndman, and Frank W., of Froburg, Md. He is also survived by 13 grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren and 2 brothers, Simeon of Hyndman and Joseph, of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Raley was a lifelong member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He served three years and nine months in the Civil War, enlisting for service before being old enough to be drafted. He was a member of G. A. R., Knights of Pythias and I. O. O. F. Lodges of Hyndman.

The funeral service was held Tuesday at his late home. In the absence of his pastor, Rev. J. C. Powell officiated. Interment was made in the Hyndman cemetery.

The following persons from a distance attended the funeral: Mrs. Mary Wertz and son, Robert, Misses Ida and Anna Raley, of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Walther, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, of Connellsville, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Raley and daughter, of Froburg, Bert Raley, of Boswell, Norman Raley, of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Mary Blough and son and Mrs. Annie Backman of Cumberland.

HARRISBURG LETTER

Harrisburg, April 18.—What is to be taxed and how much, is the principal question which is bothering the Legislature this week. Other issues, as appropriations and reorganizations are help in temporary abeyance until the Legislature knows what's what on the taxation problem.

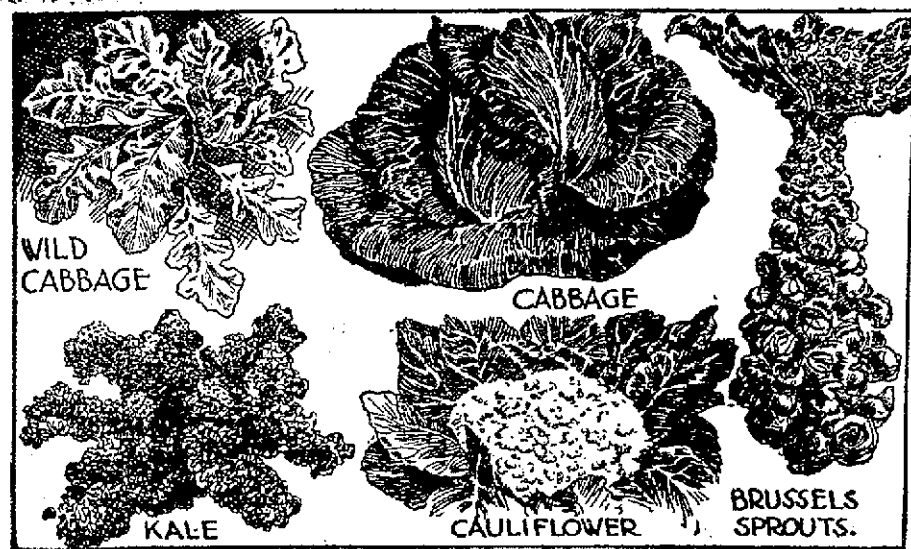

Following a speech by Chairman George I. Woner of the House Ways and Means committee, that after three months of study, he had arrived at twelve conclusions on the tax problem, the Legislature broke out into a series of speeches, in which Woner was the principal topic of discussion. One member criticized him for presenting a dozen conclusions instead of one or two on which the House could take concrete action. Another remarked that "a leader would have stepped into the branch", and a half dozen others presented varying views on the subject, some defending the committee because no definite estimate of needs for the next two years had been presented to permit the committee to take decisive action.

During the discussion, Representative Alexander, Delaware county, expressed a point which was in the minds of many members—that the people back home cannot understand why taxes are being considered, because Governor Pinchot has said he can care for the executive work of the State without additional revenues. He expressed the opinion that until the Governor makes it perfectly clear to the people that additional taxes are necessary, for schools or any other purpose, the members dare not vote for any taxes without jeopardizing their standing with their constituents.

Governor Pinchot, on Monday of this week made that explanation, much to the surprise of many of the Legislators. He had told them time after time that taxation was a matter for the Legislature to decide, and that he would not accept the responsibility of the Legislature in that matter. Only a week earlier, in reply to requests of Legislators that he advocate additional taxation, he had said, "once more and finally, I will not."

In his statement Monday, the Governor said additional taxes will be needed for schools, and the only question to be decided is whether the tax is to be raised by the State or shifted to the local districts. Of the two, the Governor said he favored State taxation to local tax increases. "Some of my friends in the House," he said, "are of

The Cottage Gardener

Cabbage, Cauliflower, Kale, Brussels Sprouts and Kohlrabi Are Among the Cottage Garden Favorites. These Popular Vegetables Are Usually Given Good Position.

BUGS AND WORMS GARDEN ENEMIES

Sprayers and Dusters in Demand From Time the Seed Goes Into Ground.

Insect immigrants from foreign countries added to the list of those that are natives of America have very materially increased the worries, both of the home gardeners and the commercial truck growers. When it comes to conducting the fight against the inroads of these pests, the home gardener is often at a decided disadvantage, because he does not have the sprayers, the dusters and the other equipment. There are the so-called biting and chewing insects which eat the plants, sucking insects that suck the sap of the plants, worms that work under the ground and bugs that work on the tops of the plants, moths that lay their eggs and almost every conceivable form of trouble maker. Fortunately for the gardener, the entomologist has worked out the habits of these garden enemies and has been able to prescribe a poison or a repellent or some means of perfecting the crops from the pests.

Every home gardener should prepare to fight insects at the very beginning of the season.

CABBAGE FAMILY IN HOME GARDEN

Big, Juicy Leaves Supply Splendid Vegetable for Boiled Dinners, Salads.

Corned buffalo hump and cabbage probably served as many a cave man's Sunday dinner.

The cabbage has been esteemed as a vegetable for 1,843 years that we know of, a ripe old age. Buried somewhere in the centuries of its history is the head of the cabbage and the reason thereof.

We are indebted to Pliny the elder, the famous Roman scientist, who wrote the first "natural history," for the earliest accurate mention of the cabbage as a vegetable. He stopped writing in 79 A. D., when he lost his life in the destruction of Pompeii.

The cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprout, the kale and kohlrabi probably are all descended from a wild plant native to the sea cliffs of western and southern Europe. Its Latin name is Brassica oleracea.

In its native state it has a loose, foetose of large, thick leaves for the storage of surplus moisture. It may collect when it rains, and these leaves, unlike the cabbage of the garden, are long and deeply lobed. They vary in color from green to red. Pliny described several types of cabbage and it is altogether likely, according to the best authorities, that cabbages were in general use before the Aryans migrated westward. It was probably a cave man's favorite.

Moved from the meager sustenance of the dry cliffs where it dwelt and planted in rich, deeper soil, the cabbage grew enormously, developed a stem and by the mere speed of its growth developed a head. The cauliflower probably tried to make leaves and flowers at the same time and compromised with the white "curd" which is a thickened, flattened overgrown flower cluster.

The history of the development of the cabbage gives the key to its culture. The richer the soil and the faster it is kept growing, the larger and solid the heads. It must be grown fast to head fast. If through lack of fertility or drought its growth is checked, there is either no real head or a loose, very inferior one, the whole strength of the plant going to develop such leaves as it had produced before the check. The Chinese cabbage is an entirely different species from the common cabbage and its brothers.

Cabbages and their relatives are known as Brassicas to the English gardening experts, that being their Latin name, as choux to the French and as kohls or kraut to the Germans.

SWEET PEAS FINE FOR THE BOUQUETS

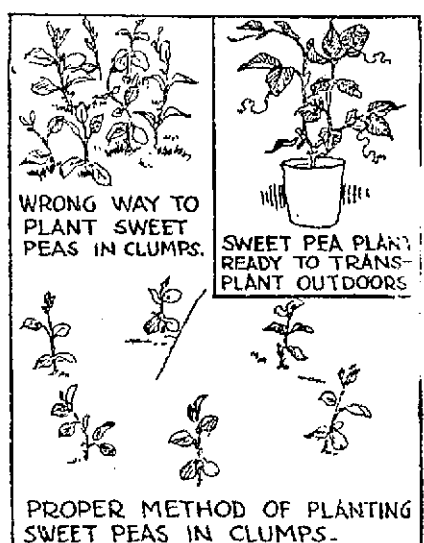

No Annual Gives More Beautiful Flowers—Must Be Given an Early Start.

Everybody wants sweet peas. No annual gives more beautiful flowers for cutting, and this plant is particularly useful for cutting. It makes a beautiful display for a time, but its real value is to provide bouquets for the house.

No one can have sweet peas without giving them an extra start. They will not endure hot, dry weather and flourish. Consequently they must be planted early. If the ground is workable in March they should be put in, planting them deeply, say about two inches.

It is much surer and safer to plant them in pots or boxes or in a cold frame for an early start. The paper flower pots of small size which can be very cheaply purchased, or the paper drinking cups which can be had at a small outlay are ideal for starting the individual plants, pricking holes in the water cups for drainage. It is a good plan to have some light sticks seven or eight inches long if they must be kept indoors or under glass for some time upon which the tiny plants may start to climb. Otherwise they become hopelessly entangled.

Sweet pea growers are with great difficulty weaned from the habit of thick planting of the seed, much the same as with the garden pea. The idea of spacing the individual plants six inches apart is hard to convey to an old-fashioned gardener, yet one season's experiment with the plants so spaced, the soil being thoroughly enriched, and a goodly supply of moisture supplied shows, the advantage in the greatly increased vigor of the vine, size of the stem and height to which it will climb, to say nothing of larger and more numerous flowers per plant.

These little pots may be placed in a cold frame for an early start, or started in the kitchen window in limited quantities.

Dryness tends to make the vine an easy victim of red spiders, the whole plant turning gray and dying.

CHURCHES OPEN TO MEN AND WOMEN.

Of so little account is woman in China that a ruler, if asked the number of his children, will probably leave out the girls in his reckoning. In the very great majority of cases the girls are not taught to read or write, for the simple reason, as the men would say, that it is useless for girls to learn to read. And the restrictive customs are based on the idea that woman is a being inferior to man.

STUMPT?

FROM childhood up, we meet stumps every day of our lives.

They either stump us, or we stump them. The more successful we are in jumping stumps, the less are we stumped by stumps.

The most important stumps to watch are those that stump the maintenance of good health.

When Nature sounds her warning and indicates unmistakably the location of a stump—HEED NATURE.

When the mouth tastes bad, breath is foul, stomach distressed, brain foggy, eye sore, remember Beecham's Pills will clear away the stumps of indigestion, constipation and biliousness.

For 80 years this famous family medicine has stumped disorders of stomach, liver and bowels to hold their grip on man, woman or child.

WHY THAT LAME BACK?

That morning lameness—those sharp pains when bending or lifting, make work a burden and rest impossible. Don't be handicapped by a bad back—look to your kidneys. You will make no mistake by following this Bedford resident's example.

Mrs. J. F. Leonard, 138 Spring St., says: "I don't know what might have been the cause of kidney trouble in my case, but I was bothered with a steady pain in my back. When I stooped, I was taken with a sharp, knife like pain across my kidneys. Dizzy spells also bothered me a whole lot and specks appeared before me. Mornings when I got up I had a tired feeling. Kidney weakness was another affliction to contend with, as my kidneys didn't act as they should. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills in the paper and tried a box. After using several more boxes I was cured entirely and have had no occasion to use them since."

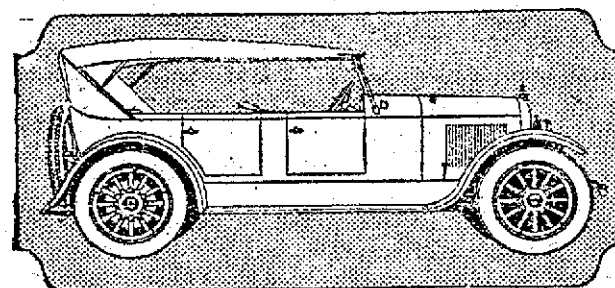

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Leonard had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Benjamin Franklin's Thrift.

The thrift of Benjamin Franklin is reflected in his will. In giving his daughter his "King of France" picture, set in 148 diamonds, he requests, "that she would not form any of those diamonds into ornaments either for herself or daughters, and thereby introduce or countenance the expensive jewels in this country." He concludes his will with this clause: "I would have my body buried with as little expense as I possibly can, as may be written E. A. Hume's tract in the Thrift Magazine."

PENNSYLVANIA STATE ITEMS

Mr. Carmel.—While on his way to work at the Greenough colliery, Andrew Toth, of this place, dropped dead.

York.—Fifty-five members of the York County Bar Association attended a dinner at the York Country Club.

Lancaster.—A wage increase to employees of the Conestoga Traction company was announced here.

Altoona.—Success attended the drive for $50,000 to build a permanent home for the local American Legion.

Mountville.—Miss Mary Musser, of this place, a teacher in the Parkersburg schools a number of years, has been chosen principal of the Parkersburg high school.

Pittsburgh.—The police trial board exonerated Lieutenant Albert Burris and Sergeant Howard Gaiser of any blame in connection with their alleged failure to extend protection to Jerome Archie, whose father killed Mrs. Archie and then committed suicide on April 4. Jerome Archie charged that the police refused to respond to a call before the shooting occurred.

Wilkes-Barre.—Paul Donah, leading man and director of a stock company playing in this city, was held in $3000 bail, charged with failing to turn over about $2100 in war taxes to the government. The company is said to have failed to pay 10 per cent of the receipts for November, December and January, and Donah was taken before United States Commissioner Smith, where he waived a hearing.

West Chester.—Truman D. Wade, counsel for Mrs. Julia Upton, brought a suit in the common pleas court to recover the equivalent of 25,000 Belgian francs, which it is alleged, she lent to Daniel Daley, of Strafford, in 1921. At that time Daley, who was traveling abroad, met Mrs. Upton. Their friendship grew, and when Daley told her he was short of cash, Mrs. Upton furnished the amount now sued for, taking his note. This was dated September 1, 1921, and was made in Brussels. Daley returned to this country and not long ago married the widow of Horace Pettit, of Strafford. Mrs. Pettit's first husband was counsel for the Victor Talking Machine company, of Camden, who left her $900,000.

Harrisburg.—Governor Pinchot appointed Howard F. Marsh, of Wellsboro, judge in Tioga county, to fill a vacancy. He is the first judge appointed by the governor and is a native of Tioga county, 69 years old. He practiced law in Wellsboro and later engaged in newspaper work in New York. He returned in 1897 and has been practicing law there since.

Pittsburgh.—Christmas trees for the Pittsburgh market will be grown in this district, if plans of H. R. Eby, Allegheny county farm agent, meet with approval of the farmers. Mr. Eby will conduct experiments in Butler county to demonstrate Scotch pines can be grown on barren hillsides and other waste lands unsuitable for cultivation.

Wilkes-Barre.—The failure of John Dickson, of Wyoming, to appear at the appointed time for his marriage to Miss Anna Rinkus, of Exira, prompted the parents of the disappointed bride to have a warrant sworn out for the missing bridegroom. The ceremony was to have been performed in St. Casimir's church, at Pittston. Everything was in readiness for the affair, the bride and bride party were at the church, but the prospective bridegroom interfered considerably with the program by failing to appear.

Reading.—General George Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, has notified city officials that he will make an inspection of the plans for the elimination of the Seventh street grade crossing, preparatory to deciding whether or not he will become the consulting engineer on the problem.

Philadelphia.—Marches are the chief cause of fires in this city, as shown by the report of the Fire Insurance Patrol. There was an increase of 672 fires in 1922 over 1921, according to the report, and there were in all 5658 fires here during the last year. The report fixes the losses to insurance companies for the year 1922 at $4,335,108, as compared with $5,641,943 in 1921. The fires are divided in the report as follows: Stores and warehouses, 329; printers and publishers, 11; metal workers, 44; wood workers, 25; textile workers, 47; miscellaneous, 2799, and dwellings, 2408.

Bethlehem.—The New Jersey Zinc company, which abandoned zinc ore mines a few miles below this city nearly a generation ago, is now making a careful examination of the mines there and may resume operations. The mines were closed down years ago when the cost of production became more than the market value of the product, but zinc ore is now so high in value that it is thought the old Friedensville mines can be profitably worked.

Lewistown.—The school board has ordered the Wayne street building remodeled at a cost of $7,500.

Pittsburgh.—Western Pennsylvania cases will be heard by the superior court when it convenes here.

Pittsburgh.—Fifteen persons, charged with illegal use of railroad passes, were fined $100 each in federal court.

Lancaster.—Frank G. Betterline, 51 years old, fell dead as he was on his way home from a quarry near here.

Altoona.—Twenty-five Chinese have been put to work on track repair work in the Pennsylvania yards at East Altoona.

Phoenixville.—Intense excitement was caused when the walls of the high school building on Nutts avenue sunk, windows crashed to the floor and several window curtains broke. A thorough investigation has been started by the school board. The director of recreation was putting a number of pupils through their exercises when the crash came and a panic was barely averted.

Reading.—The Reading Transit and Light company advanced the wages of its 500 motormen and conductors four cents an hour on its entire system, which includes Reading, Norristown, Rosborough and Lebanon. This raises the wages of its car service men from forty-six to fifty cents an hour, except the operators of one-man cars, who will receive fifty-five cents an hour, their pay always having been five cents an hour more than the others.

Danville.—A libel suit asking $5000 damages was filed here by Miss Viola Vought, teacher of the River School, in Mayberry township, against Mrs. Ada Loreman, a resident of the district from which pupils attend Miss Vought's school. The plaintiff bases her charges on a letter alleged to have been signed by Mrs. Loreman and sent to Mrs. Madison Vought, the plaintiff's mother. The letter, according to the plaintiff's statement, read in part: "We beg you to look into Viola's health and sanity, as she is continually causing trouble in school and outside with her framed-up lies and slurs. Her scholars are taught to be a set of liars and tattletales, ending in cursing and fighting."

Harrisburg.—Ten persons were killed and 45 injured in 77 railroad grade crossing accidents during February, the bureau of accidents, public service commission, announced. This is an increase of two and 29 respectively, in the number killed and injured compared with the same month of 1922. The report showed 65 automobiles involved in the accidents with seven of the occupants killed and 40 injured. There were 48,305 industrial accidents during the first three months of this year compared with 35,608 for the same period of 1922, the workmen's compensation bureau announced. Compensation paid during the first quarter year amounted to $2,270,344, of which $68,433 was for fatalities.

Harrisburg.—Provision for the non-partisan election of judges is contained in a bill which Attorney General George W. Woodruff is having drafted for introduction in the senate this week. The measure is designed to re-establish the system set aside by action of the 1921 legislature. The bill now in preparation would do away with all party election of judges and require that they be on non-partisan tickets entirely. The measure, according to Attorney General Woodruff, has the support of the administration.

Pittsburgh.—One man was killed at Kendall station, Moon township, during an argument as to whether it was time to go to bed. Carmine Boccali was the victim of the shooting. James Pelizzari, alleged to have fired the shot, escaped. According to county detectives, Boccali and a party of men visited Pelizzari's home. At 1 A. M. the host suggested it was time to retire. Boccali said it was too early to go to bed, and the argument ended in the shooting.

Bloomington.—Mrs. Elizabeth Fletcher, the oldest resident here, celebrated her 98th birthday.

Altoona.—Stella Shuptratt, 2 years old, died at a hospital here from scalds received when she fell into a pan of boiling water at her home.

Marletta.—Stephen Dehner, a farmer, in twenty-four hours had his right foot mangled by a heavy wagon passing over it and his left foot scalded when an oil stove upset.

Berwick.—Orders for 1000 steel hopper cars for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad company have been received by the local plant of the American Car and Foundry company.

Pottsville.—Collection of Sunday mail was restored here, as the post-office department agreed to allow $300 for this work until the end of the fiscal year in July. This is the exact amount which Postmaster Krebs turned in as a surplus last year. At Minersville the department has allowed an appropriation for auxiliary work.

Shenandoah.—The Shenandoah Construction and Supply company let a contract for 400 modern homes on Shenandoah Heights, a new section recently purchased from the Girard Estate, of Philadelphia, on Locust Mountain, overlooking this town.

Hazleton.—Fortune tellers and phrenologists will not be permitted to do business here, according to a ruling by Mayor James G. Harvey.

Lancaster.—Robert S. Hoffman, aged 12 years, of Little Britain township, this county, had his left hand mangled when a cartridge exploded while in school.

Mowrey.—Milton Wolfgang, of this place, was instantly killed by a car on the Locust Spring rock bank that was knocked off the track by another car that struck it.

Altoona.—After fifty years of service, Christopher J. Cassidy, foreman of the wheel shop at the Pennsylvania railroad shops here, has been retired on a pension.

Uniontown.—There were more than 200 prisoners in the Fayette county jail, the greatest number of the year.

Uniontown.—Fayette county set a new record in March for violent deaths when fifty-one were reported to the coroner.

Wilkes-Barre.—Plans and specifications for the Luzerne county tuberculosis hospital have been approved by the commissioners.

Hazleton.—An automobile stolen from William Case, of this city, was found on the Nesquehanna mountain, buried so badly it could not be salvaged.

LESSON FOR APRIL 22

MOSES, LIBERATOR AND LAW-GIVER

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 14:10, 13-22. GOLDEN TEXT—Fear ye not. Stand still and see the salvation of the Lord.—Exodus 14:13.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Deuteronomy 2:23-28; Psalm 135:4-6; Matthew 17:3; Acts 7:17-44; Hebrews 11:23-28.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses the Boy Whom God Saved.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Moses Leads Israel Through the Red Sea.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Moses the Great Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Character of Moses.

I. The Birth, Preservation and Education of Moses. (Exodus 2:1-8).

1. His Birth (vv. 1-2). His parents were of the tribe of Levi.

2. His Preservation (vv. 3-8). The faith of his parents caused them to ignore the command of the king and they hid him for three months (Hebrews 11:23). His mother discerned in him a proper child, or a child fair to God (Acts 7:20), and believed him to be the deliverer of his people. Perhaps led by the story of Noah's ark, she made him an ark of bulrushes and placed Moses in it and left it at the place where Pharaoh's daughter would be attracted when she came down to bathe. Miriam, his sister, was placed where she could watch the affair, and at the opportune moment she came with a suggestion of a nurse for the baby; securing her consent, Miriam brought the child's mother.

3. His Education (vv. 9-10). He was educated first at his mother's knee, the place where his character was formed. He was also educated at the Egyptian court, where he became acquainted with the wisdom of Egypt (Acts 7:22).

II. The Call of Moses (Exodus 3).

1. The Lord Speaks From the Bush (vv. 1-5). In the desert the Lord appeared in the vision of the burning bush. When Moses stepped aside to behold this strange thing God taught him the lesson of proper approach unto himself.

2. The Lord Commissioned Moses (vv. 7-10). God assured him of his active interest in his people, having seen their affliction, heard their cry, and known their sorrows, and that he had come down to deliver them from the hand of the Egyptian through Moses as His agent.

III. Moses' Contest With Pharaoh (Exodus 5-12). The ten plagues reveal the contest carried on between Moses and Pharaoh before the people were set free. The tenth stroke from the strong hand of the Almighty made Pharaoh willing to let Israel go.

IV. Israel Crossing the Red Sea (Exodus 14:10, 13-22).

1. Israel's Strutted Circumstances (v. 10). At the Lord's direction they changed from their first course and were apparently in great difficulty. The Red sea was before them; the mountains on either side. Pharaoh with his chariots of war was closing in upon them. In their distress they cried to the Lord.

2. Israel's Miraculous Escape (vv. 13-22). (1) Moses' words to the people (vv. 13-14). (a) "Fear not." Since God was leading them by day and by night with the pillar of cloud and fire they had no need of fear, even if they were in straitened circumstances. (b) "Stand still." Standing still in such a trial is faith taking hold of God's promise. (c) "See the salvation of the Lord." "The Lord shall fight for you." (2) God's words to Moses (vv. 15-18). (a) "Go forward." No use to pray longer when God says "Move forward." (b) "Lift up thy rod." This served as something tangible upon which their faith could rest. They were to go through the sea on dry ground. But the symbol of God's presence now passed to the rear to hold the enemy at bay. (3) The divided sea (vv. 21-22). As they went forward the very thing which they feared became a wall of protection on either side.

3. Overthrow of the Egyptians (vv. 22-27). Having seen the Israelites go across dry shod the Egyptians immediately pursued them, vainly thinking that they could follow in the wake of God's children. That which was a protection to God's children became an instrument of destruction to the Egyptians.

4. Israel's Song of Triumph (15:1-21). They attributed their deliverance and the overwhelming defeat of their enemies to God. They could well sing their song of triumph, for they were on the other shore.

V. The Law Given (Exodus 20:1-17). God gave through Moses to the world a complete code of laws setting forth duties to God and man.

Production of Excellence.

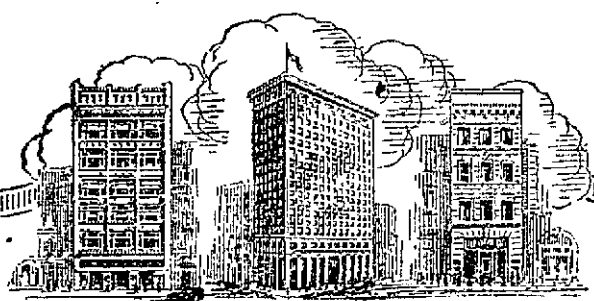

Nothing is such an obstacle to the production of excellence as the power of producing what is good with ease and rapidly.—Alkin.

Truth.

If any one will tell me how truth may be spoken without offending some I will spare no labor to learn the art of it.—Ep. Horne.

More Painful.

More tedious are often more painful than real calamities.—Goldsmith.

Laying Linoleum.

When linoleum is laid it must have room to stretch. If it is not given room, by leaving the edges loose for a little time, it will form itself into ridges and eventually crack. Wherever there is a joining an eighth of an inch should be allowed.

Origin of "Beyond the Pale."

In the time of King John that part of Ireland which was subject to English rule was divided into 12 counties, and the entire district was known as the Pale. From this originated the expression "beyond the pale," meaning outside the law or beyond jurisdiction. Inside the Pale, English law was acknowledged and obeyed, while the land outside was in an almost constant state of uproar and dissension.

The Resurrection Flower.

In Egypt is a plant called the resurrection flower. It is seen as a little ball hanging on a fragile stem, resembling in color and shape a shrunken poppy-head. Sleeping, but not dead, the flowers are aroused by being immersed in water, and then supported in an upright position. Soon the fibers begin to stir. Slowly they unfold, until, with petals thrown back, it becomes a beautiful starry flower, not unlike an aster.—Brooklyn Eagle.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

The Administrative Division of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association presents a fine report for the month of March. The Organized work was pushed in 46 counties. The reports show that in many of the counties very definite things were undertaken. Thirty-nine counties scored 100 on Monthly Schedule of Promotion. The book read during March was the Organization and Administration of Religious Education (Stout). This book is a recent one on that subject and of considerable merit. It contains much information for the Sunday School administrators. In a number of counties the reading of specialized books is promoted among the associational officers as well as the leaders of the local school. A few in Bedford County are doing special reading but not nearly so many as ought to be doing it. Not too late to begin. The Conventional season is coming on fast. Many will be held in June. Indications are that they will be of usual interest. Bedford County has been placing considerable attention towards providing a good program, and have succeeded in arranging for one of the best. It will be held in Bedford on June 7 and 8. We want also at this time to call attention to the fine program arranged for in the form of an institution for Sunday School workers to meet in Bedford June 4, 5 and 6. There will be three periods each of the three days, giving nine sessions. Mr. Mack of the Hall-Black Co. will have charge of the music; Rev. O. R. Palmer of Philadelphia will have charge of the Bible instruction; Dr. A. E. VanOrmer will lecture on Pedagogy and Sunday School Administration; and Miss Esther Williams will have charge of the Supervised Recreation and the Four Fold Life as pertains to our Young People. A fine program. Arrange to attend at least part of the time. The beginners department was the Major Objective for Promotion in March. (See March letter.) The aim was to get the local school interested in the Beginners' Department; that is the children under six years of age. The drive was for a separate room for the Beginners. Many of the counties are making progress. The Young Peoples' Department of Bedford County are making arrangements for a Young Peoples' Conference to be held in the Methodist Church of Everett, May 1 and 2. Let every Sunday School of Bedford County be represented. Superintendents, watch your mail and don't overlook or neglect to heed the call.

CHOOSING A COLLEGE

Principals and teachers of rural high schools should help the students that intend to continue their studies beyond high school to select the college or university that seems best fitted for each individual student's needs. Out of the 105,000 boys and girls that are being graduated yearly from rural high schools, 55,000 intend to go on to normal, school, college or university. Very often even though the student may know just what line of work he wishes to take up, he does not know what school to attend to get that work. Selects a college because it is near, or he has a friend there, or some one from the college has canvassed the high school for pupils. These are the best ways to decide a question that may influence the entire trend of one's later life. The rural high school can help in this. A list of the 1,040 normal schools, colleges, universities, and professional schools giving the name, location and name and address of the president of each may be had free from the U. S. Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, Washington. D. C. Current catalogues are sent on request from most of the institutions so that a small library of 500 or 600 of them can easily be collected. With the help of a teacher the class should learn to use the catalogues, write to registrars, etc. For rural high school children in the last half of the senior year, one period a week given to work of this kind should be well worth while. — U. S. Dept. of Education.

DERRICK MAKES LEGISLATIVE HISTORY
An unprecedented action for this session of the Legislature happened on Wednesday night when the House by decisive vote placed the Derrick Anti-Daylight Saving Bill upon the calendar for action yesterday. This is the first time at this session of the Legislature when a bill was withdrawn from consideration of a committee and this instance not withstanding a negative report of the Judiciary General Committee the House promptly placed this bill on the calendar. Senator Derrick who is the author of this bill deserves commendation on this ability in securing favorable action of the House against the negative report of the committee. Representative Wright had charge of the bill on the floor of the House.

Bedford visits from this place on Saturday were William Bowser and son John.
Mrs. John Berkheimer spent Saturday in Bedford with her daughter. The farmers are all busy plowing for their spring crops.
The heavy snow and rain the latter part of the week stopped the oats sowing and reminded the farmers that summer had not come yet.
Mr. Wallace Shaw, of Moorehead, Indiana County, spent the week end at the home of R. C. Trout.
Howard Bloom and son Clark spent Saturday in Bedford.
Mrs. Nick Lagan's, mother and brother, of Elizabeth, Pa., are spending some time with Mrs. Lagan.
Mr. J. C. Trout, salesman for the Delgo light sold J. B. Potts, of Alum Bank a large job on Tuesday. Mr. Trout has sold upwards of forty plants since he came to the Brown Motor Supply Co., of Bedford. Our farmers are fast grasping the efficiency of electricity on the farm.

Measles are in season in this community. Practically all of the Hol-low school is afflicted.
Miss Verna Trout who has been visiting in Indiana County the past two weeks returned home on Saturday.

News of the Co-operatives

Employees' Judgment of Co-ops.
One of the best ways of judging a co-operative is to ask its employees about it. That's what the Franklin Cooperative Creamery Association of Minneapolis has done, and here are some of the answers the managers got from 60 of their employees. They ought to convict any Doubting Thomases that there is more than talk in cooperative principles; real co-operation is practiced as well as preached. These are a few of the answers the workers in the Co-operative Creamery gave to the question "Why are you working for the Franklin Co-operative?"

"Because the workers are going to gether, always pulling together for one thing, 'the largest creamery in the city.' When we go to the customer we know we have quality and purity which we have never had before."

"Because when you get a body of people all pulling together for one great cause, co-operation, you get wonderful results."

"Because it educates and does not drive its workers."

"Because the Franklin Co-operative Creamery is one of the strongest proofs that the workers can be trusted to operate and manage industry for the benefit of the workers and the public."

With visions like these, it is easy to understand why the workers of the Franklin Creamery have been able to handle a business of $1,600,000 and roll up earnings of more than $100,000 during the past year. Co-operation not only pays in dollars and cents to the consumers but pays in happiness and opportunity to its workers.

Workmen's Milan Hotel.
A model workmen's hotel run on co-operative lines and providing all the modern conveniences and comforts has been established by the Italian co-operators at Milan. It is run by the Cooperative People's Hotel, which is one of the notable enterprises of the Milanese co-operators.

Every evening the "Dormitorio," which is named after Buffoli, a pioneer of Italian co-operation, is full and many applicants have to go away. With a capacity of 339 beds, 113,000 lodgers were accommodated during 1922. The large swimming pool was especially popular with the co-operators of Milan. It is open to the public as well as to the guests at the hotel, and last year it refreshed over 21,000 co-operators.

Dormitorio Buffoli is just one of the chain of People's hotels maintained by the co-operative of the city. Still another one, operating on one of the main thoroughfares of the city, lodged 193,775 persons during the past year.

Philippine farmers' first step in co-operation has proved so helpful that a widespread movement is opening up throughout the islands. The small farmers, who constitute a large portion of the 11,000,000 Filipinos, are nearly all in a chronic state of indebtedness, due to the wicked actions of moneylenders. To help them solve their credit problem, the Philippine Legislature passed an act in 1915 permitting farmers to form credit associations and to conduct simple co-operative banks managed by themselves and adapted to their own needs. There are now 540 rural credit associations in operation, which are managed by some 2,600 directors without remuneration for the benefit of the 80,000 members.

Farmers Cut Insurance Cost

Property safely insured, low premium rates, risks greatly reduced, and on top of that savings of over $145,000 in one year—these are the benefits of co-operation which the farmers of Sullivan County, New York State, have won for themselves through organizing the Farmers' Cooperative Fire Insurance Company in Woodridge, N. Y. The farmers used to be in the grip of the powerful insurance trusts, which raised rates overnight, cancelled policies at will, and often demanded new premiums. So successful has co-operative fire insurance proved that the private concerns have been almost completely driven from the county.

In 10 years' time the business of this farmers' fire insurance co-operative has grown until now it is carrying $5,880,950 worth of insurance on farm property, distributed among 1,506 policies. It has managed its business so carefully and honestly that it was able to cut the premium rate from $9.06 to $1,000 of insurance to $4.45, with $2. the rate on certain classes of insurable property. Despite these reductions, a saving of $145,000 was amassed during 1922.

SCOTTISH CO-OP. 100 YEARS OLD.
A hundred years ago, 18 weavers who "viewed with serious concern the many disadvantages in purchasing the necessities of life," put their pennies together and started a little store in the Highlands of Scotland. They organized the "Larkhall Victualling Society" in Lanarkshire, Scotland, which has been trying to smooth out the "disadvantages" the workers of Lanarkshire have been under ever since 1812. Starting with the noble band of 18 members, its now has more than 2,500 on its rolls. Its beginning capital, which amounted to no more than $95, has now grown to be more than $400,000. One salesman was able to manage the business in the little victualling shop, when it opened its doors, and he was paid $4 a week for his services. Now the weekly payroll of the employees in the shop total $1,500. In the early days of the co-operative, the profits were distributed according to the number of shares each workingman had invested. In 1892 the society changed its by-laws providing for dividends to be paid on the purchase made.

Mr. Smug Married Man Do You Help Wife Gladly

See here, Mr. Smug Married Man, did you every hurry home to help your wife out of a domestic dilemma, and do it gladly and wholeheartedly—no growling?

In all probability, if you did not glum over it, you snarled, and if not either of these, then you patted yourself and thought "what a good husband am I."

Now that is about right, as you would do it, but it is fair to the "lady of the house?"

If you know anything at all, you know that she would rather do almost anything than ask you to discommode yourself when you have been working all day.

If it happens to be Sunday or a holiday, she hates it still worse.

But lots of things happen in families where each member of the family has his or her plans put out of joint for the common good.

Your wife does not tell you every time you come home late just what plan of hers has gone awry because you did not come at the time you were expected.

In your honeymoon days you tried to make excuses to help and hang around her and she misses the little attentions of those days; but when you grouch at disarranging your plans for her—what does she think? Columbus Dispatch.

The Nuts And The Plums

A certain farmer had two sons. One day he made up his mind to try to find out which of the two sons was the sharpest and brightest in intellect.

Going to the eldest, Jim, he gave him a bag of plums, with instructions that he must divide them equally with his younger brother, Tom. Jim was cute and thought out a plan whereby he could manage to get the best of the bargain under the pretense of equal division of the plums, as he had been told to.

Approaching his younger brother Tom, who was not as cute and clever as himself, but rather dull-witted, he said: "Father has given me this bag of plums to share 'equally' between us. Now then, Tom, which will you have—the inside or the outside?"

"The inside," said Tom.

"All right," said Jim, "you shall have it."

Whereupon he ate the plums and gave the stones out of them to his younger brother.

The farmer, hearing the tale of division, told his wife. She also determined to test the boys, and accordingly gave Jim a bag of nuts to divide equally with his brother, as he had done the plums.

Jim again told Tom of the gift and its condition. "Now Tom," he said, "which half will you have this time?"

Tom, with a rueful face, said: "Well, I didn't like my share last time."

"But you had your choice," said Jim, "and it was your fault and not mine."

"Well," said Tom, "I didn't like the inside last time, so this time I'll have the outside."

So Jim cracked the nuts, ate the kernels, and gave Tom the shells as his share.

Jim in after life grew up and became a prosperous capitalist. Tom remained an ordinary workman. Sometimes he chose the Tory, and got the stone; then, being dissatisfied, he changed to Liberal and got the shell.

These two classes of brothers still exist today as in the fable.

To which class do you belong? Are you a Tom or are you a Jim?

The farmer and his wife are Mother Earth, the nuts and the plums are its fruits, and you are the brother. Again I ask: "Are you a Tom or are you a Jim?"

Why I Want To Be a Farmer

An Irishman and a Scotchman were having a debate over which was the greatest nation; and the Irishman asked the Scotchman what he would be if he was not a Scotchman, and he said he would be an Englishman. Then the Scotchman asked the Irishman what he would be if he was not an Irishman, and the reply was, "I'd be ashamed to be anything else but an Irishman. This may not be the case with me, but at any rate, I am proud of the fact that I am a farmer's son."

I want to be a farmer because the country is an ideal place in which to live. The farmer has all the conveniences of the city, as electric lights, bath room, water power, telephone, radio and the Ford; and also some things that the city folks do not enjoy—lots of air and sunshine. It is the place that God created for man to live. It is much healthier than the city, and you may have a cool place to go if it gets too hot and escape suffocation.

Another important thing is you know what you are eating, because you know where it is coming from, while the city man has to eat what we don't want to eat. You may enjoy all kinds of recreation, you can see the fruits of your labor, as in raising livestock and when your animals have matured, you can see what your labor has brought you. In raising livestock, a person can watch them grow and try to better their conditions to make them grow faster. The same is true in growing all grain crops. You may watch them grow and try to produce better yields; try different varieties and when a person has harvested he can see what he has for his labor.

All these things bring joy to the farmer: while a mechanic working in the carshops or in some factory, he may only do one thing to an article produced, and hundreds of other men may be working on the same thing. So that he can't see much that he has accomplished.

Farming is the most honorable occupation on the face of the earth. You are your own boss, and this means a whole lot.

You are never hampered or crowded by other workmen, or afraid of being laid off, as the farmer's smoke stack is always smoking if he so wants it. It is the largest one-man manufacturing plant in existence. There is no other occupation in which God and man work together as much as they do in farming and the farmer knows that he is always doing something for somebody else, as in producing food. The saying is "The farmer feeds the world." If it were not for the farmer, there would not be any cities or other industries. It may not be the most profitable occupation or the easiest, but in the long run, it is the best.

Industry in the State Department of Agriculture, for payment of indemnities for tuberculous cattle slaughtered after State inspection, the city money must be paid, too.

The Haines bill passed, with the city members smiling quietly, but last Wednesday, the tables were turned. The Minehart bill was called in the midst of a busy session, when most of the city members were busy with other matters, and paying scant attention to the calendar. The roll call was almost completed, before one of the Pittsburgh members discovered what had happened, and asked to have his vote changed to oppose the bill. A series of other changes were asked, and some rural members, who also had been caught sleeping, asked to be recorded in favor of the bill. It passed 135 to 27. Secretary Frank P. Willis, of the Department of Agriculture, says the passage of the bill means $50,000 additional for the department in curbing contagious diseases among cattle.

Both houses have passed the bill by Representative Behney, Labanon, which provides for drainage of wet or swamp lands through adjoining property. The bill requires that a board of viewers be appointed by the court to appraise the lands to be drained, and assess the damage to the adjoining property, the petitioner paying all costs. The bill is in the hands of the Governor awaiting approval.

Farmers' organizations are also interested in the bill of Senator Betts, Clearfield, which provides for a Constitutional amendment permitting the issue of $5,000,000 in State bonds for additional buildings and equipment for the Pennsylvania State College. A large part of this sum would be used to increase the agricultural facilities of the college. The bill has passed the Senate and is in the hands of the House. The organizations also are urging the approval of recommendation of the State Council of Education that a special appropriation of $100,000 for agricultural research be made to State College.

The bill to reappropriate $15,000 to the State Fair Commission, to continue its activities in selection of a site for a combined exhibit of all State farm products, has passed the House on second reading. The commission has recommended a site near Harrisburg for the fair, but has not taken definite action toward acquiring it.

The House had also passed finally the Walker bill providing for the removal of weeds and dry stone walls which might cause drifts of snow.

Farmers, especially near mountains and timberland, are urging the passage of the Stevens bill, which has passed first reading in the House. It provides for co-operation by the State in building fences to protect farm crops and fruit orchards against damage from wild deer and other game animals. The Department of Agriculture and Game Commission have received complaints from many sections of the State from farmers whose crops have been damaged, especially early wheat.

The Senate now has under consideration a deficiency measure appropriating $12,814.65 as the State's share for agricultural exhibits held in the counties during the last two years.

Among other agricultural bills which are receiving consideration are the following: by Miss Martha Thomas, Chester county, permitting county commissioners to make appropriations to incorporated horticultural and agricultural sections for county fair purposes; by Representative Heyburn, Delaware county, providing a quarantine area in the vicinity of Philadelphia for the Japanese beetle; by Representative Haines, providing for standard containers for farm products; by Representative Hall, Dauphin county, amending the law regulating the use of cleats on tractors which travel on the highways, by making owners responsible for damage to roads.

The State agricultural authorities are beginning now in their campaign to rid the eastern half of the State of the Angoumois grain moth, which last year made the wheat crop in a number of counties less valuable by a million of dollars. The moth is of the borer type, leaving little but the chaff. It has developed in this State during the last four years.

The committee arranging for the State Farm Products Show, is considering charging admission to the show next year. It is held here each January. The need for revenue by the Department of Agriculture is the reason for the suggested change. Even a nominal for the admission would produce several thousand dollars, as the attendance this year was between 35,000 and 40,000 persons.

Representatives of eighteen agricultural associations, meeting here to complete details for the organization of the State Council of Pennsylvania Agricultural Association, passed resolutions urging the Governor and Legislature to handle the affairs of the State so that the burden of taxation for roads and schools will not be shifted to the local taxpayers. The resolutions also asked the Legislature to "compel these enjoying exemptions under our tax laws to pay their share of the cost of government."

The delegates elected Morris F. Phillips, Pomeroy, as president of the newly formed council; Mrs. Frank B. Black, Garrett, vice-president; and John M. McKee, deputy secretary of agriculture, as secretary-treasurer.

The agricultural organization represented at the meeting were: the State Horticultural Association; Pennsylvania Breeders and Dairymen's Association; Pennsylvania Potato Growers Association; Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association; Pennsylvania State Poultry Association; Tobacco Growers Association; Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Association; Inter-State Milk Producers Association; Pennsylvania Holstein-Friesian Association; Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association; Pennsylvania State Grange; Pennsylvania Farmers' Cooperative Federation; Society of Farm Women; Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Federation; Pennsylvania State Berkshire Association; Pennsylvania State Hereford Breeders Association; Pen Manor Cooperative Association of Bucks county; Farmers' Union of Cederburg; the Pennsylvania State College, and the State Department of Agriculture. The price object of the council is to promote cooperative marketing among farmers to eliminate the "middleman's profit" from the price the farmer gets for his crops.

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowling

A flash came into Aimee's eyes; it announced the birth of a brilliant idea. She laughed impulsively, and then sighed.

"Can't he worked, I'm afraid," she murmured. "Too far away, and there isn't time. But what a pity!

Suddenly Aimee started to her feet in sheer panic.

"Oh, great heavens, what an idiot I am! Dad! I quite forgot—"

The stress of the past ten hours had utterly driven from her mind one vital fact that now came back poignantly. Lord Scroope was coming to Jervaulx at 5 p. m. Georgina had said so. The burglary, intervening, swamped all memory of it. But, after all, Lord Scroope's arrival could be worse than the burglary.

"It absolutely ruins everything!" said Aimee desperately. "What am I to do? If only I'd told Billy! But even he wouldn't be able to do anything here."

She paced the floor of the cave. The bottom had dropped out of the entire scheme of things. Then her face lit up with a gleam of hope and she stopped short, thinking swiftly.

"There might be time. It's frightfully risky. But if I don't try it I'm done for."

She buttoned up the dust-cloak with nimble fingers.

"As well be hung for a sheep as a lamb," said Aimee.

She left the cave, ran up to the crest of the crag-pit, and looked round cautiously. Then she picked up the skirts of the dust-cloak and scudded across the common like a hare.

The Panhard luggage-car from Jervaulx wound its way through the lanes, with Mr. William Spencer at the steering-wheel, clad in a dark green uniform overcoat with brass buttons. The time was 5:15 p. m.

The Panhard was running badly. In spite of Billy's overhaul, two of the cylinders misfired; presently the car stopped with a cough and splutter. Billy, using blood-curdling language, leaned out the prodigious Mr. Boxall, late chauffeur of Jervaulx abbey, got down and opened the bonnet. It took him several minutes to start the Panhard again, and when finally he arrived at Stanhoe railway station, the train from Burnt Ash was alongside the platform.

A painfully obvious policeman in plain clothes was lounging in the station approach. He did not waste a second glance on Billy; the driver of the Jervaulx abbey car had no interest for him. Billy, anxious to pick up his passenger, the disastrous parlor maid, hurried onto the platform.

He sighted his quarry at once. A young woman in a cheap black tight-fitting coat was standing by the luggage-van. Baggage checks are unknown in England. A tin trunk was hurried out of the van by a blind, invisible force, and Billy, approaching the passenger, raised his peaked cap politely.

"Are you for Jervaulx abbey?" he asked.

The young woman turned round.

"I'm the new parlor maid," she said primly in broad Eastshire dialect. "You might carry my box for me. If that ain't too heavy."

Billy's head swam. His fingers opened, and feebly closed again. His eyes bulged.

It was Aimee. Aimee in a black coat over a print dress, and sensible boots. Her bronze hair was drawn straight back and plaited into a respectable knob, her eyes were preternaturally solemn.

They passed out. Billy took his place at the wheel. Aimee seated herself beside him.

"I'll sit here," she said serenely. "and you can tell me about the place as we go. What's it like? They say her ladyship is something chronic."

Billy glanced at her dazedly, and let in the clutch. The transit of Stanhoe was made at something over the speed limit. When clear of the town, Billy gave the coughing Panhard a full throttle and roared along the Jervaulx road. He did not look at Aimee, who was staring straight in front of her. Billy switched the car down a narrow lane, covered by overhanging trees, and stopped the engine. He turned to face Aimee.

"Partner," he said, "what in thunder does this mean?"

Aimee looked at him, and dissolved into spasms of laughter.

"What do you think of it, Billy?" she said. "Aren't I the complete Amy Snooks?"

"It don't go!" said Billy, almost fiercely. "Let me in on this. What have you been doing?"

"When you left me this morning, I remembered something positively awful. Dad was coming here this afternoon—at five o'clock."

Billy whistled with dismay.

"The police business had driven it right out of my head. And I couldn't consult you. I thought the only thing was to get to Scroope Towers and try to put it right. I knew there was a train about ten at Stanhoe, and I started for the station. But I never got there."

"Thank the powers you didn't!" said Billy fervently. "All the stations are watched. You'd never have passed through alone without getting pulled by the cops."

"Well, the train wasn't necessary. A car overtook me on the road—driven by a young man. He pulled up and offered me a lift."

"Oh!" said Billy.

"He was quite a good sort. Inclined to be a bit sentimental; but it was a fast car, and he was rather new to driving. What's the matter with you?"

There was an expression on Billy's face that she had not seen there before. He was looking sour.

"Get on with the song and dance," he said shortly.

"Well, I was dropped near Scroope, and I got across to the Towers, creeping about like a Red Indian, so nobody saw me. I had a look in through the morning room window and saw Dad reading his letters. I had a mind to go in and kiss him, but, of course, that wouldn't do. He was looking pleased—I think he was reading Aunt Erythea's letter approving of me. Of course he hadn't heard about the burglary. There's no telephone at Scroope—Dad won't have one."

"Then I stalked the garage, where old Grandle, our shaver, had got the head off one of the cylinders, and I heard him grumbling to the gardener about having to drive Dad to Jervaulx and back the same evening. I hid in the barrels till Grandle went to his dinner, and then I attended to the car—especially the magneto. I did it artistically. You can take it from me, the old bus will never leave Scroope today. Dad's visit is a washout. He's no time to get here except by car—I know he has to catch the ten o'clock mail train from Seabridge. He'll have to take the carriage there—and start early, too."

Billy emitted a stifled noise.

"It's all to save Dad pain and worry," said Aimee complacently. "One must consider one's parents. Never do to have him coming here just now."

"Great Christopher!" said Billy. "But that doesn't explain how—"

"I'm coming to that. I made a circuit through the Home wood to the cottage where Amy Snooks lives with her old grandmother. I tacked up and down in the offing till I saw grandma toddle away on her usual afternoon visit to the woodcutter's wife, and I nipped indoors to have it out with my dear old Snooks. I found her packing for Jervaulx, and I told her what I wanted her to do."

"Amy Snooks is what you call stolid, and I've broken her in very well—but I'm bound to say she was absolutely paralyzed this time. But she surrendered, before I'd done with her. She just came to heel. It may surprise you, Billy, but she simply adores me. Amy never refused me anything in her life."

"Having melted her into flexible condition, I borrowed one of her print dresses (she hadn't another black one) and her second-best coat, and did my hair like hers. I'm jolly good at doing hair."

"To cut it short, I cleared out and moved across country to Pibbuck station and took the afternoon train. Amy joined it with her two tin boxes at Burnt Ash, and I got into her carriage at the next stop. I gave her all the money I had, and made her go on to Seabridge with one of the boxes. She'll get herself lodgings there and have a good time till further orders—she can last a week, anyhow. I took the other box and came on here. And now, partner—what about it? Wasn't it a brain-wave?"

Billy took off his cap and made disorder of his honey-colored hair.

"You mean to tell me," he said dizzily, "that girl fell for it—just because you told her to?"

"Ah, you don't understand the feudal spirit," said Aimee complacently. "There have been Snooks in the Home wood ever since there were Scroopes in Scroope Towers. They help each other. When Amy and I were kids and went birds-nesting, she was always underneath when I fell out of the tree. She has irregular features, but a heart of gold. And, by the way, of course Aunt Erythea has never seen Amy—she engaged her on Dad's recommendation."

"But she's seen you!" exclaimed Billy, "when you crashed the Sphinx into her carriage."

"Only for half a second. She's blind as a bat. She'll never know me. Isn't it great, Billy?"

He looked at her thoughtfully.

"Great Caesar's ghost!" he said, explosively. "It is! You're right. The last place on earth those fool police would ever find you or look for you, is the house where the burglary happened. It's better than the cave, anyway. You'll be right under my eye; and among your own folk in case real trouble came. But—"

"But what?"

"Why, you can't do it! You, parlormaid to Lady Erythea? It's the acid test! Partner, you could never get away with it."

Aimee regarded him pityingly.

"Billy, I may not know anything about men," she said, "but you know less than nothing about women. There isn't the woman living, from six years old upwards, that isn't a born actress, when she has station and took the afternoon train. Amy joined it with her two tin boxes at Burnt Ash, and I got into her carriage at the next stop. I gave her all the money I had, and made her go on to Seabridge with one of the boxes. She'll get herself lodgings there and have a good time till further orders—she can last a week, anyhow. SEVENTY THOUSAND NEW TELEPHONES WILL BE ADDED TO THE BELL SYSTEM IN PENNSYLVANIA THIS YEAR

At the beginning of the year there were more than three-quarters of a million Bell telephones in the state.

Every new telephone added requires new wire, new central office equipment, new switchboard facilities.

And new efforts on the part of the twenty thousand Bell Telephone people, who build, maintain, and operate the system.

Seventy thousand new telephones in one year is the essential part of our program to keep pace with Pennsylvania's telephone needs.

will not increase prices until May 1st

Firestone Prices on Fabric and Cord Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, also Solid and Pneumatic Truck Tires Will Advance May 1st

The postponement of this price revision is possible only because of our realization of the price danger in the British Crude Rubber Restriction Act which became effective November 1, 1922. We were fortunate in our rubber purchases before the Restriction Act increased the price of crude rubber 150%.

We have always endeavored to champion the cause of better made tires delivered at lowest cost to the tire user by economic manufacturing and distribution. And we are glad of the opportunity to give the car-owner the additional saving at this time.

Firestone Cords embody certain special processes which result in their producing mileage records, heretofore unheard-of in the industry. Among the more important of these superior methods are blending, tempering, air-bag cure and double gum-dipping.

Firestone Dealers are co-operating with us in our movement to supply your needs at present prices as long as their stock lasts and we have advised our dealers that we will supply them with additional tires this month only so far as our output will permit.

See the nearest Firestone Dealer. Purchase a set of these Gum-Dipped Cords. Prove for yourself their remarkable mileage advantages and easy riding qualities.

ROUND KNOB

The snow that fell last Friday night has delayed the farmers with sowing oats.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Figard and son, John and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Gowaty were in Everett Monday.

Sunday School at Round Knob was very largely attended on Sunday.

John E. Satterfield, the oldest man in Broad Top township was buried last Thursday. He was 89 years, 10 months and 23 days old. He was a good neighbor and will be missed in our vicinity.

Albert S. Figard visited at the home of his brother, Wade H. on last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Snyder, of Wilkinsburg, Harry Beemiller of Springfield, Ohio, Mrs. Emma Barnes, of Bedford, Dan Repper, of Pittsburgh and Miss Josephine Barton visited at the home of C. C. Foster last week.

Edna Feight, of Clear Ridge is visiting relatives in Round Knob.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS DIRECTED BY NEW LEADER

Sunday School workers everywhere throughout the state of Pennsylvania recognize the fact that they have lost a splendid leader in Mr. W. G. Landis who resigned the General Secretaryship of the state to take up the General Secretaryship of the World's Sunday School Association.

But, at the same time, all the workers of the state of Pennsylvania who are acquainted with Mr. Walter E. Myers, who has in the past been Adult Division Superintendent, will be glad indeed to know that he has been elected to the General Secretaryship, filling the place vacated by Mr. Landis.

Mr. Myers has been in charge of the Adult Division for a number of years, and since Mr. Landis left the State Association, has been acting General Secretary and has been carrying the work on in a splendid way without any interruption whatever.

Those who attended the funeral of Mrs. Ritchey of Clear Ridge were speakers at the Bedford County Sabbath School Convention to be held at Bedford June 7th and 8th.

BIRD BEATS A TRAIN

The fastest express train between Cumberland, Md., and Washington requires three hours and forty-eight minutes to make the trip. A District of Columbia pigeon recently negotiated that distance in one hour and fifty-two minutes, says Nature Magazine. The same bird in a 200-mile race some months previous had taken nine weeks to struggle its way back to the home cote. Some hunter had seriously wounded the bird, which had painfully fought its way back home.
